

Krsna conscious myths about who would makes a good husband

He is a good devotee, therefore he will make a good husband.

He is good brahmacari, therefore he will make a good husband.

He is not a strong devotee, therefore he won't make a good husband.

I love him. Therefore, he will make a good husband.

He says he loves me. Therefore, he will make a good husband.

He has a good education/job, therefore he will make a good husband.

I feel good when I with him, therefore he will make a good husband.

He leads wonderful classes, therefore he will make a good husband.

He leads wonderful kirtans, therefore he will make a good husband.

He is attracted to me. Therefore, he will make a good husband.

He is a well respected devotee, therefore he will make a good husband.

He understands me. Therefore, he will make a good husband.

He is such a nice guy, therefore he will make a good husband.

And there are many more myths.

Marriage is a decision which affects your life as much or more than any decision you ever make. Make this decision wisely.